Serotonin Club Meeting
Keble College, Oxford, England
July 17-20, 2008
Official Satellite to the EPHAR Meeting in Manchester

The 7th International meeting of the Serotonin Club will be held 17-20th July 2008 in Oxford, England, as a Satellite to the EPHAR meeting in Manchester. The meeting venue will be Keble College which is in the heart of the city, directly opposite the University Museum and University Parks and a gentle stroll away from the Sheldonian theatre, Bodleian library, covered market, and the historic pubs of St Giles. The college provides state-of-the-art conference facilities and modern accommodation in idyllic surroundings. Meals will be taken in the magnificent Dining Hall which is one of the largest and most impressive in the University. Oxford is very well linked with Manchester, London and all the main airports so it is convenient for both UK and international delegates. Both the train and bus stations are within walking distance or a short taxi journey of the college. The scientific organising committee is looking forward to receiving numerous innovative proposals so that there will be an exciting programme of cutting edge preclinical and clinical serotonin research, with young scientists at the forefront.
